This course is an intensive beginning and intermediate language course that provides an introduction to the Italian language and culture. It covers the material presented in ITA 101 and ITA 102 and prepares students to enroll in ITA 107 or ITA 108. Activities and interactions provide the opportunity to develop intermediate speaking, listening, and writing skills using language of a concrete, conversational nature.

Prerequisites and Restrictions: This course is designed for students who have already studied Italian at the high school level; for those who are of Italian heritage; for those with an advanced proficiency or AP/SAT in another romance language; or who have already studied a language at the college level for at least one semester.

Other information: This course will be conducted entirely in Italian.
