Beginner's French I
FRE 101

Instructors: Johnny Laforêt, Course Head

This class develops the basic structures and vocabulary for understanding, speaking, writing, and reading in French. Classroom activities foster communication and cultural competence through comprehension and grammar exercises, skits, conversation and the use of a variety of audio-visual materials.

Prerequisites and Restrictions: Students having studied French previously must take the Princeton French Language placement test. The afternoon section of FRE 101 (C05) will focus on reading skills, in addition to oral communication, and is limited to graduate students. Section C01A is reserved for complete beginners, namely students with no previous knowledge of French.

Offered every fall term. Classes are conducted in French.
PLEASE NOTE: C05 is limited to Graduate Students.